Chairwoman's Letter to Shareholders

1 September 2023 to 29 February 2024

Dear Shareholder,

I am writing to update you on the activities of BlackRock Global Funds ('BGF') over the six months to 29 February 2024. The BGF range comprised 105 Funds (each a "Fund", together the "Funds") as at 29 February 2024.

The past six months have been characterised by ongoing volatility in global equity markets but share prices around the world have, overall, made solid gains on hopes that central banks will start to cut interest rates in mid-2024. Investors have been optimistic that the recent period of high inflation and tight monetary policy will not cause significant damage to the global economy, while the potential of artificial intelligence ("AI") to drive growth has also had a positive impact on market sentiment.

The period began with weakness in equity markets as a result of rising energy costs and concerns that central banks may need to raise interest rates further to combat inflation. Losses in September were followed by further declines the following month after the start of conflict in the Middle East threatened significant disruption to global supply chains as well as upward pressure on commodity prices.

However, markets ended 2023 on a positive note with strong gains in November and December as geopolitical fears eased, and central banks indicated they could start cutting rates in the early months of 2024 following further declines in inflation. Resilient economic data for much of 2023, meanwhile, helped to ease concerns around slowing growth: while activity in areas such as manufacturing and construction fell back, labour market performance remained largely robust and retail spending proved resilient, especially in the US.

As the period wore on, there were growing signs that European nations were seeing a greater negative impact from the challenging macroeconomic environment. Growth in the Eurozone stagnated in the final three months of 2023, with particular weakness in Germany, the bloc's largest economy. Data from the UK, meanwhile, showed that the British economy had contracted in the fourth quarter of 2023, thereby entering a technical recession (defined as two consecutive quarters of negative growth).

Equity markets began 2024 still on the front foot, with particularly strong gains in February. These were largely driven by positive corporate results from major US technology firms thanks to optimism around the potential impact of AI. However, commodity prices weakened due to lacklustre economic data from China, where the government's efforts to stimulate demand following the country's post-COVID reopening have yet to have a meaningful impact.

In its World Economic Outlook Update, published in January 2024, the International Monetary Fund ("IMF") forecast an expansion of the world economy of 3.1% in 2024: this reflected an upward revision from the 2.9% predicted by the organisation in October 2023. However, the IMF added that geopolitical shocks or an excessively rapid loosening of monetary policy could put the global economy at risk over the coming months.

The declines in inflation that began in the US and Europe in 2022 continued, and rates in many major economies were approaching central bank target levels at the end of the period. In the US, consumer inflation was recorded at 3.1% in January 2024, while the rate had fallen to 2.8% in the Eurozone and 4.0% in the UK. Easing price pressures meant that the likes of the Federal Reserve ("Fed") in the US, as well as the European Central Bank and the Bank of England felt able in autumn 2023 to pause their programmes of interest-rate hikes and signal they would be ready to consider cuts at some point in 2024.

There was continued volatility in fixed income assets during the period. The yield curve on US Treasuries remained inverted throughout: this means that short-term interest rates are higher than long-term rates. Yields on higher-quality corporate bonds were also high for much of the period, and bond prices continued to come under pressure (when yields rise, bond prices drop). However, yields across the board fell in the final weeks of 2023 as hopes of interest rate cuts increased.

The assets under management ("AUM") in the BGF range fell 2.7% from USD 155.3 billion to USD 151.1 billion over the period.

Funds which have exposure to commodity prices saw significant outflows. The World Mining Fund declined 16.6% to close at USD 4.5 billion, while the assets in the World Energy Fund stood at USD 2.3 billion at the end of the six months, a fall of 22.8%. Meanwhile, the ESG Global Multi-Asset Income Fund lost 71.2% of its assets to end at USD 48.1 million, while the Sustainable Fixed Income Global Opportunities Fund fell 35.0% and closed the period at EUR 329.6 million.

The largest inflows in percentage terms were seen in Funds that focus on sustainability. The Emerging Markets Sustainable Equity Fund increased in size by 240.9% over the six months, taking its assets to USD 264.3 million, while the Brown to Green Materials Fund rose 217.4% to end at USD 64.8 million, and the Sustainable Global Allocation Fund ended at USD 201.2 million, a rise of 109.8%.

Other notable increases were recorded by the Japan Flexible Equity Fund, which rose 79.8% to JPY 63.0 billion, and the World Technology Fund, which ended the six months at USD 11.5 billion, an increase of 17.5%.

During the period, there were two changes to the BGF range. The China Flexible Equity Fund was terminated on 1 November 2023, and the Global Listed Infrastructure Fund was launched on 6 February 2024.

The information stated in this report is historical and not necessarily indicative of future performance.

Chairwoman's Letter to Shareholders

1 September 2023 to 29 February 2024 continued

On 1 March 2022, due to the significant investment exposure of the BGF Emerging Europe Fund (for the purposes of the remainder of this paragraph, the "Fund") to Russia, the Board of Directors took the decision to temporarily suspend subscriptions and redemptions and conversion of all share classes and the determination of net asset values, pursuant to the Fund's discretion under the prospectus. At 29 February 2024, valuation, subscriptions and redemptions in the Fund remain suspended until further notice. Post period end the directors notified the shareholders of the Fund of their decision to transfer the liquid and tradeable portion of the assets to a newly created sub-fund within the Company. For further details see Note 1 and Note 18 to the Financial Statements.

Regulatory change continued throughout Europe and a number of these developments could have implications for investors. Key changes included:

- ▶ The European Union's Sustainable Finance Disclosure Regulation ("SFDR") came into effect in March 2021. It imposes new transparency and reporting obligations on investment management firms, both at a firm-wide level and at a product level. Certain parts of the framework were finalised in 2022 and adopted at the start of 2023. At the same time, the EU is working on an EU-wide classification system or 'framework'. This taxonomy is designed to provide businesses and investors with a common language to identify to what degree economic activities can be considered environmentally sustainable. There are also moves to improve reporting, with the Corporate Sustainability Reporting Directive ("CSRD") due to be implemented later in 2024. Under the CSRD regulations, companies will be obliged to report on sustainability across their supply chains ("Scope 3") and will also be required to incorporate double materiality into their reporting. Double materiality is the requirement to report not just on how sustainability-related issues affect the company, but how the company's activities affect the likes of the environment, climate change and social issues. The Luxembourg government recently took further steps to encourage investment in environmentally sustainable funds, reducing the 'taxe d'abonnement' (subscription tax) for funds that meet certain environmental criteria.
- ▶ The UK Financial Conduct Authority's new Consumer Duty rules came into force on 31 July 2023. These rules impact the content of the communications issued by investment funds – including those domiciled or marketed in the UK – to retail investors. The rules enforce a duty of care on financial services firms for their retail customers, committing them to deliver good outcomes for retail customers while also providing evidence of how they are doing so. The 'higher and clearer' standards of consumer protection now apply to new and existing products open to sale to UK retail investors.

Investment Adviser's Report

Performance overview

1 September 2023 to 29 February 2024

Market Review

Despite some initial turbulence, global stock markets performed positively across the six months under review. The period began with widespread share price falls in September 2023 after major oil-producing nations agreed to cut their output levels, driving up the cost of energy. Investors worried that a consequent rise in inflationary pressures could force central banks to continue their programme of interest rate hikes well into 2024. Until that point, steady falls in inflation in North America and Europe had raised expectations of an imminent loosening of monetary policy.

Further losses were recorded in October in the wake of the conflict in the Middle East. Fears of an escalation of the conflict across the Middle East led to more oil-price rises and concerns about the potential impact on global supply chains. Indeed, attacks on commercial shipping in the vital Red Sea route increased in the weeks and months that followed, resulting in a degree of disruption in the European manufacturing sector in particular.

November and December of 2023 saw a sustained rebound as geopolitical fears eased and investors' focus shifted to the prospect of lower interest rates in 2024. Share prices were also buoyed by signs that tighter monetary policy had had less of a negative impact than feared on economic activity and labour markets in the US and other developed nations.

These gains were extended in the first two months of 2024 as inflation continued to fall and corporate earnings indicated some level of resilience in the face of tighter monetary policy. A number of indexes in the US, Europe and Asia reached record highs in February in the wake of quarterly results issued by major American technology companies that reflected significant levels of optimism around the potentially transformative effect of AI on corporate profitability and wider economic growth.

The picture in China remained much more subdued, and the country's post-pandemic recovery continued to be particularly uneven during the period. Investors had hoped that the end of the country's "zero-COVID" policy in late 2022 could drive a rapid increase in growth. However, sentiment among Chinese investors and businesses was dominated by concerns about stability in the real estate and banking sectors in the face of rising global borrowing costs. Rising levels of corporate debt allied with weakness in China's stock markets prompted the Beijing government to make further attempts to provide fiscal stimulus.

Conversely, Japan's stock market, was one of the world's strongest performers during the six months under review. Significant levels of fund inflows into the country were the result of weakness in China, the loose monetary policy maintained by the Bank of Japan, and strength among Japanese technology and manufacturing companies.

The challenging period for global bond markets continued but the prospect of interest-rate cuts in 2024 eventually helped yields to fall back and prices to rise (bond yields move inversely to prices). The yield on 10-year US Treasuries stood at 4.3% at the end of February 2024, having hit a post-financial crisis high of almost 5% during October 2023.

Outlook

Equity markets recovered well in 2023 as inflation continued to fall and central banks laid the groundwork for a pivot to looser monetary policy. While data has been mixed in recent months, investors remain hopeful of a 'soft landing' following the period of high interest rates and wider economic turbulence.

However, although investor confidence has remained high at the start of 2024, there remain a number of potential headwinds. Resilience in areas such as labour markets and consumer spending, in the US in particular, could see a return of inflationary pressures and persuade central banks to maintain rates at current levels for longer. The geopolitical situation in the Middle East remains highly uncertain and complex and is already having negative consequences for international trade. Meanwhile, China's efforts to stimulate its economy and generate significant post-pandemic growth are yet to have a meaningful impact.

Despite the ongoing challenges in the macroeconomic environment, the corporate sector has, however, remained reasonably robust to date, with particular strength in technology firms thanks to optimism around the potential impact of AI. Undoubtedly, there are companies that can weather the current storm and do well in spite of any looming economic weakness. While there will undoubtedly be challenges in the months ahead, so too will opportunities continue to emerge.

Performance overview

1 September 2023 to 29 February 2024 continued

Disclosed in the table below are the performance returns for the A Class Non-Distributing Share Class for each Fund, net of fees and expenses, which has been selected as a representative Share Class. Performance returns for any other Share Class can be made available on request.

Calculation methodology is based on industry standards.

Past performance is not a guide to future performance and should not be the sole factor of consideration when selecting a product. All financial investments involve an element of risk. Therefore, the value of an investment and the income from it will vary and the initial investment amount cannot be guaranteed. The Fund invests in a large portion of assets which are denominated in currencies other than US dollar; hence changes in the relevant exchange rate will affect the value of the investment. The performance figures do not consider charges and fees that may be levied at the time of subscription or redemption of shares. Levels and bases of taxation may change from time to time. Subscriptions may be made only on the basis of the current Prospectus, of which the most recent annual report and audited financial statements and interim report and unaudited financial statements form an integral part, as well as Key Information Documents (PRIIPs KID). Copies are available from Investor Services, the Transfer Agent, the Management Company or any of the Representatives or Distributors. The BGF range is only available for investment by non-US persons. It is not offered for sale or sold in the US, its territories or possessions.

The Funds are not registered for sale to the public in all jurisdictions. Further details on distribution of shares of the Funds are included in the Authorised Status on page 3.
